Our Innovation Mindset

In security, we have upgraded the models for how to architect our environments, secure our assets and build our applications, but we have struggled to update the model of how we plan for the future.

CISO Next intentionally couples a contemporary brainstorming model – design thinking – with deep subject matter expertise to drive the security conversation forward.

Design thinking is a process and a mindset. When we are designing new solutions, we are committing to trying something new. Thinking like a designer gives us permission to fail and to learn from our mistakes. We generate new ideas, get feedback, then iterate; sharing the results with the CISO community.

CISO Next is a fresh, innovative space for CISOs to engage, learn and grow – in an actionable way. Security professionals need to consistently fine-tune their approach and this program helps CISOs do just that.
