

Taking RPA to the Next Level

How companies are using robotic process automation to beat the competition

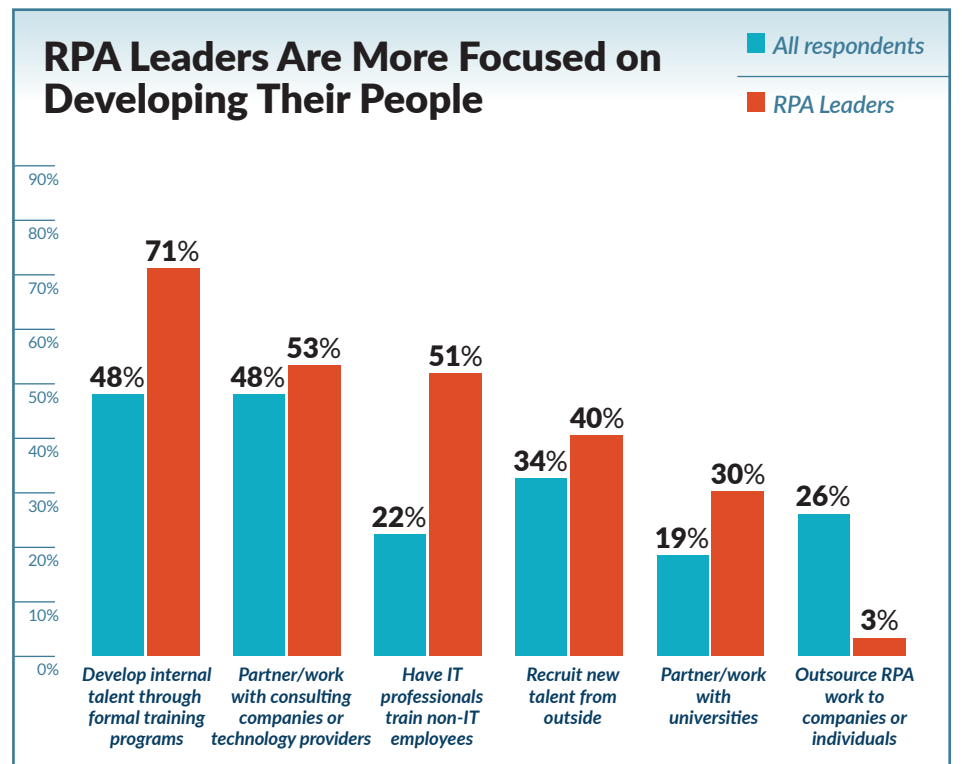

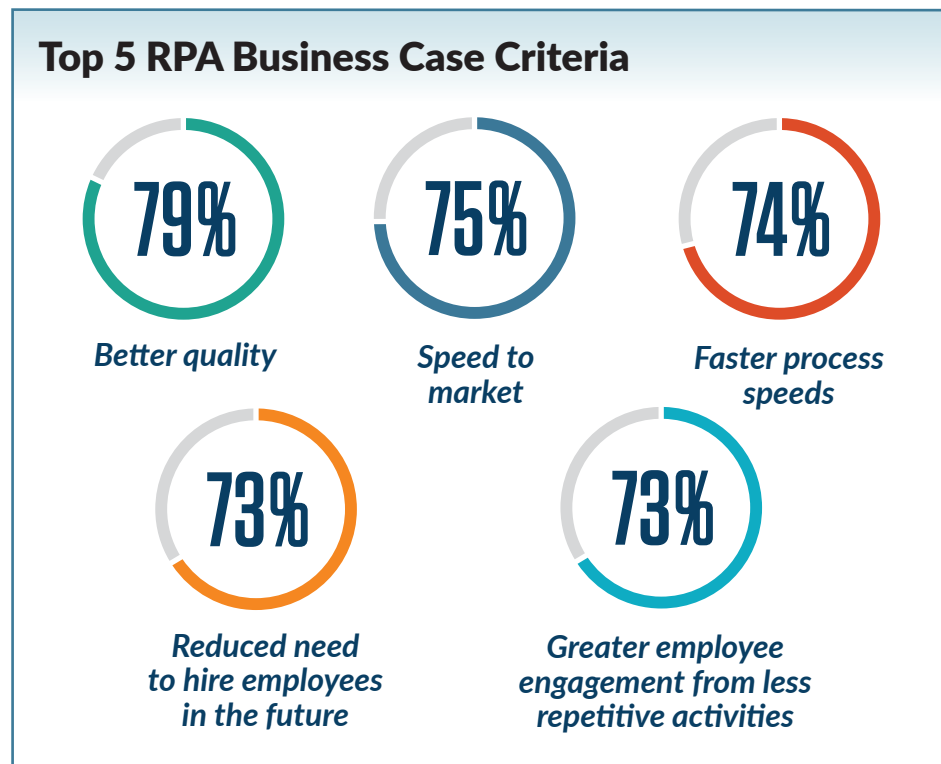

Companies across all industries are pumping resources into robotic process automation (RPA). In as little as two years, RPA leaders – those companies we've identified as already ahead of the curve – will be using bots in virtually every function within their organizations. These are among numerous takeaways from a global survey of 450 executives conducted by Protiviti and ESI ThoughtLab.

Survey participants:

RPA delivers many benefits

Companies are finding that their RPA investments produce benefits far beyond cost savings.
